out the coldest morning we have had—therer at sunrise indicating only two degrees above mometer at summer indicating only two degrees above zero. In spite of the severe temperature, however, Gen. Pierce took the early morning (64 o'clock) train for Boston. He will probably return to-morrow, (Wednesday.) Several distinguished strangers also showed their contempt for Mr. John Frost, (nick-named "Jack,") by leaving their beds at the hotels Among the number were Gen. Carpenter, of Rhode Jaland; Messrs. Eaton and Gilbert, of Troy, N. Y.; Hon. B. F. Butler, of Lowell; J. N. Johnston, Esq., of Ohio, (who has been sojourning several days at the Eagle,) and others.

Your Concord correspondent has not said "that . Pierce will not seek advice of any one at Wash-Gen. Pierce will not seek advice of any one at Washington as to his cabinet." (See X Y. Z.'s despatch in Sunday's Heraldd.) I merely suggested that Gen. P. would probably not send there begging for additional advice as to its construction, at this late hour, agreeably to the suggestion of a certain officious correspondent in that city, who writes over a variety of signatures for a variety of newspapers. General Pierce will doubtless select counsellors in Washington, as well as elsewhere. He has, probably, already done so. Still, I apprehend that he is not yet reduced to the necessity of begging help from a certain nameless class of chameleons, who pretend to know everything, while they in fact know little or nothing—who are continually thrusting themselves into company where they are uninvited, and whose advice is always to be had, by the wholesale, without asking.

rited, and whose advice is always to be had, by the wholesale, without asking.

Thomas F. Meagher is announced to lecture before our citizens and the Pennacook Lyceum, on Saturday evening, at the Depot Hall, which will kold an audience of 1,000; subject.—'Australia;' tickets 25 cents; the net proceeds to go to Mr. Meagher. There will, doubtless, be a large turn-out to see and hear him.

The chances of New York being honored with a place in the cabinet still appear to be growing beautifully less daily. An inspection of the mrivals at our hotels indicates that, in anticipation of the smaller States are pressing their claims with rerewed energy. Let the hards and softs order the cysters speedily—there is no time to be lost.

Miss Mary Ann Atherton, sister of Senator Atherton, died at Amherst on Wednesday, Jan. 26, of lung fever. His father, it will be recollected, died on the eighth ultimo of the same disease. The Senator is the only remaining child.

Politics—Composition of the Government—The Government—The Corrientine Troops and General Urquiza—American Steamer on the Parana River—Intention of the British, French and American can Ministers to Visit Paraguay, to Make a Treaty-The Entre Rios Congress-The U. S.

Corrette Jamestown, &c.
Since I last wrote, political affairs have been in quite an excitable state. Alsina was elected Goveror and Captain-General, by the Legislature, about three weeks since, and Metre, Minister of Government; Col. Flores, Minister of War, and Pens of State; out everything is very quiet in this province.

The Corrientine and Entreriana troops, that Gen. Urquiza left here, embarked in eight vessels, including ne steamer of war, ten days since, and we have just beard of their arrival at Gualaquay, in Entre Rios, and that they were revolutionizing Entre Rios contra Urquina. Generals Peran, Madriaza and Flornos were in command. So matters begin to assume a serious aspect for Urquiza, and I think we may soon hear of his downfall.

This government continues to go on quietly, facilitating trade and commerce. The American steamer "Manuelita Rosas," left for a voyage up the Parana, as far as Assumption, Paraguay, on the 12th, with a good freight and some thirty or forty passengers; thus the navigation of the Parana is at last free to all nations.

The English Minister Extraordinary, Sir Charles Holbam, leaves to-morrow in H. B. M.'s steamer Locust, for Paraguay. The Hon. Mr. Pendleton.
American Minister to this confederation, also goes in American Minister to this confederation, also goes in the same steamer. Senor St. Georges, Minister Extraordinory from the French government, also leaves at the same time, in the French steamer of war Plamburt, for the same purpose. They go to make a treaty with the new republic of Paraguay.

The Congress, called by Urquiza, was to assemble on the 20th, at Parana, the capital of Entre Rios; but as the revolution has broken out, quien sabe if the session will last long.

The U. S. corvette Jamestown is still in port, much to the satisfaction of the officers on board and the American citizens resident here. She has been here some four months, which is longer than ordinary.

From Santa Fe.

The Western mail has brought us files of the Santa Fe Gazette to the first instant, from which we gather the following items:

The Legislative Assembly convened on the first Monday of December, at the Palace. In the Council Juan Filipe Ortis was elected (re-elected) President: Tomas Ortiz, Chief Clerk; Nicolas Quintam y Alarid, Assistant Clerk; H. L. Dickinson, Third Gerk; Abraham Ortiz, Fifth Clerk; Francisco Baca y Ortiz, Sergeant-at-Arms; Mauricio Duraa, Doorkeeper, and Charles Blumner, Interpreter.

In the House, Theodore D. Wheaton (re-elected) was elected Speaker; T. D. Bussell, (re-elected) Chief Clerk; Jesos Sens y Baca, (re-elected) Assistant Clerk; Charles Clark, (re-elected) Rirolling Clerk, and Henry Mink, Interpreter.

Clark, (re-elected) Enrolling Clerk, and Henry Mink. Interpreter.

One of the very first acts of the House was one which reflected great credit upon its members, and showed that respect for themselves and the people they represented, in the present body, at least, has risen superior to the considerations of party or the claims of faction.

In the election of officers, a man was put in nomination for the office of fourth clerk, and, we are sorry to say, elected, who is now under bond in this city in the sum of $1,000, we believe, for burglary. Subsequent to his election, when the fact became fully known to the members, resolution of expulsion was introduced, which brought up the most animated debate we have ever witnessed in the House. Messrs. Tuley, Ortero, Gonzales, of Taos, Craddock, and one or two others whose names we do not recollect, strenuously advocated the resolution, and Messrs. Pino, C. Ortiz, and Sena y Romero defended the clerk.

Clerk.

It is creditable to Mr. E. Ortis, that, although he had originally put this man in nomination, when the merits of his case were brought into view, he abandoned him, and voted for the resolution of exclusion.

On the final vote the resolution was carried by a vote of 16 to 8, and the clerk was expelled from his office.

On Tuesday evening the Governor delivered his message in the hall of the House, and was responded to by Hon. Eulogio Ortis, one of the newly elected members for this gounty.

We are much pleased with the message. It is sententious and vigorous in style, comprehensive in its views, and looks to the welfare of the Territory rather than the accomplishment of some sinister purpose of personal or party aggrandizement—a virtue that has rarely belonged heretofore to similar documents in this territory.

By a recent letter received in this city from Dona Ana, we learn that the family of a Mr. James W. Graves was brutally murdered a short time since, in that county, by an American, whose name is not given in the letter. The members of the family were in bed asleep when the horrid act was perpetrated, and are represented as presenting the most shocking spectacle. What adds to the fiendishness of this murder is, that an unborn infant was murdered with its mother—a fact of which the fiend was probably aware when he was perpetrating his diabolical work.

The murderer was followed to Sonors, Mexico, a distance of about four hundred miles, captured, brought back, and hung à la Mora. This is the flith execution, we believe, in this Territory, in less than a year, under sentence of the high Court of Judge Lynch, with one under the sentence of the civil Court.

STRALING A WILD BOY.—The singular curiosity known as the "Wild Boy," which has been on exhibition for several days in Cineinnati, was abducted from his owners or friends last evening about senset. The doorkeeper had gone to an oynter aloon, leaving a person in charge of the boy, who had disappeared on his return, and is supposed to have some guilty knowledge of his present whereabouts. The backman who drove off the parties is under arrest, in the Hammond street stationhouse, but refuses to give any account of the person who employed him, or of the place to which the boy

2. PULLE SHOT BY JAMES V. SOTHATESTA.

(Proce the Washington Republic, Jan. 2.)

Last evening, about half-past six o'clock, as Mr. Edward H. Fuller was about to enter the Mational Hotel he was met by James W. Schaumberg, formerly of the United States dragoons, who, without the exchange of any words, discharged a pistol at Mr. Fuller, wounding him severely in the right side. Mr. Fuller immediately retreated into the street, passing between the hackney carriages, and crossed to the opposite side of the street, where he fell, and was then conveyed into the Waverley House. Physicians were immediately sent for, and Doctors Hall, Miller, and Holmead were soon in attendance. The wound was pronounced at 10 o'clock last evening to be in all probability mortal. Mr. Fuller was sensible up to that hour, and his family were in attendance upon him.

Mr. Schaumberg, upon Mr. Fuller retreating, sapposing, as we were informed, that his fire had taken no effect, pursued Mr. Fuller nearly to the other side of the avenue, when, by the interference of bystanders and others, and upon the information that Fuller had fallen, he retraced his steps to the hotel, and ascended to his room. He was arrested there shortly after by some officers. Much indignation at his conduct was expressed by the crowd who had congregated at the doors and in the office of the hotel.

He was conveyed to the office of the hotel.

He was conveyed to the office of the hotel.

The facts having been detailed, and the probable death of Mr. Fuller ascertained, Schaumberg was committed to jail for further examination, an offer to get bail being refused.

The immediate cause of this unhappy event was the appearance of large placards on Monday morning posted in the vicinity of all the hotels, headed "James W. Schaumberg, a liar, a coward, and a swindler," and which contained a statement tending to show and prove Schaumberg to be guilty of lying, cowardice, and swindling, interspersed with many other opprobrious epithets.

It appears that Schaumberg was indebted to Mr.

Law Relating to Bribery.

The following bill to amend the existing law relative to bribing public officers, was introduced into the Senate on notice of Mr. Taber, referred to the judiciary committee, and has been reported favorably:—AN ACT TO AMEND THE KISHING LAW RELATING TO BURNEY.

New Year's Day-Urbanity of the Governor.

Authentic intelligence has arrived here that the spicious long, low, black schooner, that the authorities ordered out of the port on the 24th of October last, had proceeded to Porto Plata, (Island of St.

New Year's day passed off very pleasantly here. We called upon his Excellency, Gov. Bamelman Elsevier, who received us most courteously; in fact, from all we hear of the gentleman, his courtesy is proverbial with both citizens and strangers, and I think the inhabitants are indeed blessed with such an excellent chief magistrate. cellent chief magistrate.

The case was a charge of manshagater against Loring Price for causing the death of Joshua L. Howard. In consequence of the exclusion from the evidence of the decased, the District Attorney abandoned the case, and the prisoner was discharged.

Q. How did you know Ritchie was looking for you? A. Two men came down and asked me if I had any goods which belonged to Newman or King.

Several wiincases will be called, at the next meeting, for the purpose of corroborating the statement of Mr. Whitehead as to the main facts, and that he did not make any secret of the possession of the said property, but told his fellow officers and others that he had track of some stolen goods, and was in search of the thieves. In this instance it seems he played with the rogues too long—until they were arrested by other officers, and now he has become involved by the possession of the property. The case stands adjourned until two o'clock this day.

AROUND THE BAY OF BALE.

Professor Sillman last evening delivered a lecture upon the above subject, including notices of the volcanic islands in the Bay of Naples, of Stromboli, Mount Etnaand the most remarkable effects of its cruptions, the condition of the people, &c. The hall was filled in every part. and for the benefit of that portion of the audience not and for the benefit of that portion of the audience not present at the previous lecture, he gave a risums of it, and then proceeded with the subject as given out for the evening. Behind Naples, which is some eight of ten miles from Vesuvius, are some hills, undoubtedly of volcanic matter, composed of pumice stone, as if it had been showered down like flakes of snow, and become solidified by time. Through one of these hills is a remarkable tunnel, fifty feet in height, leading the way to Baise. Who begun it is not certainly known. In passing through this begun it is not certainly known. In passing through this hill is found the reputed grave of Virgil, the tomb stone containing a latin inscription in his praise as a poot. &c. The next in interest is the famous Lake Egnagio, and the grotto Del Calde. Passing on, you come across the ruins of the villa of Luculius, every object indicating it to have been a large and magnificent establishment; and all along the way to Bais, there is most declavie proof of volcanic action. He referred to Monte Neugo, which broke forth nearly three hundred years ago. It was so regularly formed that it could not have been more exact had it been the vork of art. It is now dormant. About here were the scenes of Roman festivities, so much dwelt upon by Virgil; and here are the famous Klysian Fields, which the imagination pictured as a most delightful spot, drawn from the same source; but they are in reality nothing but miserable fields, filled with oysters. It was very well for Virgil to give it a beautiful aspect. He was a poet. Nearly across the bay we come across the temple of Jupiter Scrapis, which, instead of being a temple for worship, was, more probably, a Roman bath. It must have been very magnificent, judging from the three columns, about fifty feet in height, still left standing. They are not solid, but comprise three pleces, ingeniously connected by rods of iron. A point of great interest to goologists, is that these columns are perforated at the height of about ten feet from the bottom by a shell fish; and at a distance of about ten feet above this are more perforations of a like nature, while above that none are perceptible. This fact the Professor concluded was an evidence that the place had been overflowed by the sea, and these marks indicate how far the water rose. There was no doubt but there had been a rise and fall in the land all about the Bay of Baise; and there is no other supposition left, but that the whole of Italy had been lifted out of the sea. The remains of Roman structures remained to this day about the bay, of Etna, 1,000 feet high at the lowest point, and 3,000 at the highest, being twenty miles in circuit, called the Val de Vove. It is a place of great interest and a subject for much thought. In concluding he gave as his opinion, that the fires in the interior of the earth were not due to the combustion of ordinary combustibles, but to internal electricity; and were the sun to cease to exert any influence on the extensor, the result would be the same. The fires will never cease, but must burn perpetually. After some experiments with potasium and rodium upon a basin of water, the lecturer concluded amid the applause of the audience.

SUICIDE IN THE PULLIT.—The Minersville Journal of the 2d instant, says: —Just as we were going to press, we learned that a Mr. Charles Fultz, a shoemaker, resident of Schuylkili Haven, in this county, committed suicide in a rather singular manner, on Sunday evening last. It appears that for some time past he had been an officer of the German Lutheran church of that place, and on the evening referred to had convened and opened a prayer meeting in the building belonging to that congregation. He went through the exercise in his accustomed manner, and nothing unusual was noticed about his appearance. Upon the congregation's retiring, he was seen to unboit one of the window-shutters; he left the building with the others, and was discovered the next morning suspended lifeless above the altar. It is supposed he obtained ingress through the window referred to.
